Preparing for Exams

Create a Schedule
To make your schedule the most effective, first find your most productive period.

Study Methods
Test out different study methods to see which one works best for you.

Practice
Try out practice exams to test your knowledge and check where you might have gaps.

Taking Notes
Try out different note-taking methods to see which style of information representation works best for you.

Academic Concessions
Do not forget to make sure that your accommodations are set in place for your exams. Also, make sure that you deal with any exam conflicts as far in advance as possible.
